Dear Sir:

Your letter addressed to Mr. Newell has been opened here and I am forwarding a copy of it to him, in the hope that it may reach his hands before he leaves London for the United States.

As you know, Mr. Newell has been in Europe for the past few months and we are expecting his return within a short time. If he does not receive your letter before he sails for home, he will respond to you immediately upon his return.

Very truly yours,

Secretary
